CONCLUSION

146 Papago Indians have an inadequate intake of ascorbic acid in their dietary food pattern and a resulting low plasma level. The nutritional and cultural aspects of this problem are discussed.

080 The investigators are indebted to Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Honorable John C. Collier; Beula M. Head, Superintendent of the Papago Reservation; and Dr. Ralph B. Snavely, District Medical Director, for their cooperation and encouragement in these studies. We acknowledge with thanks the identification of the food plants by Dr. E. F. Castetter.
